DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSE

The proposed course is aimed at doctoral students of the United doctoral school of all cycles and aims to provide an introductory and general framework for public engagement, in an attempt to stimulate reflection on its importance for research and teaching and offer an overview of the most salient aspects to consider when planning PE activities. During the course, doctoral candidates will be accompanied in the exploration of this theme and involved in moments of debate, sharing and collective reflection.

Topics:

definition of Public Engagement (PE); brief history of public engagement at international and national level; PE pros; PE in the European Charter for Researchers (2005); the definition of audiences and their involvement; the process of creating PE activities; PE in Italy and in UniTo.
